

The Pledge

“More than just words...as powerful as the supernatural force that first cut them in stone. They are an ideal code of human behavior that demonstrates the importance and sanctity of our obligations to God, ourselves and to others. They are good for individuals, good for families, good for business, good for our neighborhoods and good for the stewards of our community, state and nation. They make us happier, healthier, safer and more productive. They will change us individually and together as a people. As you apply them in your own life you will be changed, permanently. And as you (and others) change the people and things around you will change.”

I pledge to put into practice His counsel and instruction as follows:

I am the Lord your God. You shall have no other Gods before me.

You shall not serve any other idol.

You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain.

Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy.

Honor your father and mother.

You shall not murder.

You shall not commit adultery.

You shall not steal.

You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor.

You shall not covet anything.

God wants us to hear, understand, and put into practice His counsel and instruction. He doesn't see us as vaults into which He hides His Word, but rather as gardens in which His Word can sprout and grow. The knowledge that God is with me as I work energizes me every day and energizes faithful believers everywhere to bring forth good works!

It is always time to reveal the promises and blessings found in the Word of God that will attract a doubtful naysayer to follow the Lord Jesus Christ.

References: Exodus 20, New King James version, “Ten Words That Will Change a Nation” by Robert Schenck,
www.Bring.Works